INTRODUCTION

The ENGLISH BY DEGREES workbooks, starting with copying exercises, are designed partly to help pupils to learn to write English neatly and legibly and partly to reinforce the language material which has been already taught through the oral lessons and the course book. The exercises in these workbooks are not, however, meant to replace copying from the blackboard or the exercises given in the course book. They should be treated as additional exercises and should follow, not precede, the other written exercises.

In the first two workbooks the use of soft pencil is generally recommended. Pen and ink may be used in the subsequent books. It is further recommended that pupils may be encouraged to learn by heart the different sentence and phrase patterns used in these books, and the language exercises may first be done orally and then written out.
